"I can do anything to cheer and brighten the lives of my fellow men. I shall be perfectly satisfied," remarked the long-haired poet. ENGINEERS PRAISE NEW ELECTRIC HEADLIGHTS. In accordance to the new law which goes into effect the first of July, all headlights have to be equipped with electric head-lights. Both roads here are complying with this provision as fast as possible. All engineers who have been so equipped have reported most favorably as to their effectiveness. The new lamps are far superior to the old oil ones as it is claimed that the reflectors spread the light for a distance of over a mile, making objects plainly visible for a long distance. Another advantage of the electric lights is that they will enable the engine men to distinguish objects on the track in heavy fog. Because of the greater penetrating power of the new lights it is claimed by the railroad officials and the makers of the law that it will greatly decrease the number of deaths and accidents each year. In the past, a large number of accidents have resulted on crossings because the engineers would be unable to see danger in time to stop the engine.

MME. LABADIE.

What promises to be an unusual treat in the line of dramatic interpretation will be the reading of Percy MacKaye's play, "Tomorrow," at the Congregational church this evening. Large Area Has Already Been Treated.—Distributor Works Very Satisfactorily.—New Method Used.

First applications of oil to Janesville streets this season were made yesterday afternoon, and a large area has already been treated. On one side of the street is being treated at a time so as not to impede traffic and cause unnecessary tracking of oil by teams and wagons or automobiles. The treatment is being made by the use of a special machine which is being used by the city.

The new distributor is giving good satisfaction, distributing the oil very evenly, and keeping so well in control that no oil is splashed upon the gutters or sidewalks. It is being filled at the Baker siding on North bluff street opposite the gas house, and a tank car is being used to supply steam for the heating coils in the tank car. The streets will be broomed after oiling where necessary. Where there are sharp depressions the oil has a tendency to run into pools.

The Boosters' Primer

The whole country is being rocked with the agitation of community boosting. The awakening is general. It is not a question of one or two towns working with might and main, and the many looking on.

Only such cities may reap results therefore as apply intelligent methods in their work. Intelligent methods are as essential in the work of building up cities as they are in every other human endeavor.

In the building up of our own Janesville, the first duty must be to give our fullest support to such industries as we already have. To fail in that requisite is to prove unworthy of new ones.

Each of the industries now operating here serve as fountain heads of local enterprise and form the foundation of our existence as a community. Destroy them by neglect and you destroy the city.

Time may bring its own train of changes, but today the pay envelope of the factory worker contains the life blood of community existence and enterprise and the factory pay envelope creates store and bank and ditch and a host of other pay envelopes.

Primarily, however, all these many other pay envelopes rest upon the foundation of the factory pay envelope.

He who makes his livelihood at harness making, need not expect existence unless he gives his support to the man who derives his living out of the cigar industry, and so on. But neither can the merchant long endure prosperity unless he gives his fullest support to the industries of his home town.

It would be idle for us to talk "boost" unless we first learn how to boost and the best way to learn how is to resolve that henceforth we will buy all such commodities to the exclusion of others, as are made in Janesville. When you are buying cigars, buy Janesville made cigars and increase the number of pay envelopes.

Everett Booe, recruit for the Pittsburg Pirates outfield, has shown so much speed that he is almost sure to get a good trial before long. The fans are figuring that if anything should happen to first baseman Jack Miller, Willie Hoffman would go from center field to first, and give Booe a chance in center. Of course, no one wants anything to happen to Miller, but—

Competition for prizes in drop-kicking and punting is stimulating spring football practice at the University of Pennsylvania. Coach George Brooke is determined to get some booters of more than average merit.

Manager Jack Dunn of the Baltimore Orioles has decided to have a field captain after all. Briscoe Lord, former member of the Cleveland Naps and Philadelphia Athletics, will get the job.

The pitching staff of the New York Giants has been great guns. Any team that has six pitchers worked in regular turn in seven games, with not one of them defeated is right there. So thinks Manager McGraw. He just grins.

Ray Keating looks like the best young pitcher the New York Yankees have picked up in a long time. He was the guy who put the hooks in the exhibition when they had been slumping every hurler they saw, and gave them their first shut-out.

BUTTERS STILL HAS SHOW OF JOINING MADISON NINE

Will Take His Regular Turn as Soon as He Gets Habit of Controlling Ball.

That Thomas Butters, the local twirler, who tried out with the Madison team of the W-I. league this spring, still has a chance to become a member of the pitching staff, is shown by the following statement in a Madison paper, has been in town a couple of days but says he still lacks the control to shove the pellet over the plate when he wants to. He and Manager Bay had a confab and the suspension of the Jansville finesse was not lifted. Should Tom get the habit of controlling the ball at any time this summer he will be called in to take his regular turn.

An item of special import that will no doubt lend an added impetus to the waning theatrical season and one that will interest not only the chronic and casual theatre-goer but should stir the latest impulses lying dormant in the breast of every mother and father that reads this—is the announcement that Jansville is to be included in the list of 14 towns comprising the itinerary of "Blindness of Virtue" which closes its phenomenal run of over 7 months in Chicago this week and is booked to cover a short circuit of the larger one night cities before returning to the metropolis for a summer run.

Mr. T. C. Gleason who controls the American rights to this piece, through special arrangement with William Morris, is authority for the statement that the original Gleason company together with all the original scenic investment will be seen here in its entirety, complete and immense.

The date set for the appearance here is Thursday, May 8, matinee and evening at Myers theatre.

NOTED STARTING JUDGE TO SPEND SOME MONTHS HERE

Judge "Buck" Hunter, one of the best known starting judges on Wisconsin tracks, has come to Jansville to make this city his headquarters for some months. Mr. Hunter has temporarily retired from the racing game and has taken up insurance. However he is still much interested in the harness races and has visited the local track and inspected the strings that are training here with much interest. While in this part of the state he will officiate at some of the matinee races that are planned.

FRIDAY BOOSTERS' DAY.

Friday is to be a genuine boosters' day for Janesville. The legislative committee of nine, who are to inspect possible sites for the Wisconsin state fair, are to be the guests of the city on their tour of investigation of the state. It is to be a genuine old-fashioned reception with lots of band music, autos taking the place of carriages, speed contests at the fair grounds, a dinner at one of the hotels, and something doing for the visitors every minute in the day. Really and truly Janesville stands a mighty good chance of being recommended as the possible site for the state fair if its present location is changed. Legislative members, on the inside of the present move, report that Janesville is talked of more than any other city in the state that has thus far been suggested and if the fair is to be moved this city stands an excellent opportunity of securing it. With this thought in mind put the best foot forward tomorrow and show that investigating inspection committee that Janesville is the only city in the state that can offer such unrivaled facilities for the opportunity to see Janesville, to show what it can do and prompt action is needed as well as concerted action. Friday is boosters' day. Remember that and follow the band to the depot in the morning to greet the visitors and let them know this city is alive to every opportunity.

Let all the people say "Amen."

DINE AT GRAND HOTEL

Special Committee Will Go to Madison to Travel Down With Members—Visit School for the Blind.

Friday will be "Booster Day" for Janesville in earnest. Plans for the entertainment of the special legislative committee that will inspect Janesville as a possible site for the location of the Wisconsin state fair have been practically completed and from the time the committee arrive in Janesville at 9:30, over the North Western, until they leave for Milwaukee at 4:40, there will be something doing every minute.

Early Start.
A special committee composed of Mayor James Fathens, M. G. Jeffries, Frank Crook, George S. Parker and H. H. PHELPS IS ARRESTED AT WOODSTOCK TODAY ON SERIOUS CHARGE

Will be Taken Into Court Friday Morning to Answer Complaint of Attempted Criminal Assault.

St. Phelps, a nineteen year old youth who Wednesday afternoon attempted a criminal attack on fifteen year old Flossie Fredendall, daughter of Fred and Clara Fredendall, 107 South Lincoln street, was arrested this morning by the sheriff of Woodstock, Illinois, and will be brought back to Janesville to face a most serious charge, arriving here this afternoon in custody of Patrolman "Sin" Dorn, who went to the Illinois city for him this morning. Phelps came to Janesville some two months ago from Genoa, Illinois, with the Fredendalls, with whom he had made his home, and was moving to Janesville. He has done but little work since reaching here and about four-thirty Wednesday afternoon returned to the Fredendall home, 617 S. Lincoln street. Here he found Flossie, aged fifteen, alone, her parents both being away at work. He immediately seized the young girl but she was able to fight him off and her screams for aid were heard by an neighbor. The girl who was passing. Upon her arrival Phelps ran out of the house. The aunt followed him and ordered him to go to his room and pack everything he owned and leave the house at once. He did so and it was not until the child's parents arrived home some time later that the police were notified. They immediately began search for him and he was found in the "lumber place" among them Woodstock, where he was arrested this morning. Dr. Charles Sutherland was called and after examination stated that beyond a severe fright the girl was injured. The court heard the girl's story this morning, charging Phelps with a serious offense and he will face trial tomorrow morning.

OBITUARY.

Mrs. D. D. Davey.
The remains of Mrs. D. D. Davey, a former town of Harmony woman, arrived here from Rockford at 10 o'clock this morning over the Northwestern Railway and were taken to Oak Hill cemetery for burial. The pall bearers were Frank, Charles and Thomas Foley, Edward Vine and Frank Anderson. The Rev. J. W. Mahoney accompanied the boy from Rockford; he was Mr. Davey's husband and the departed her six children, Elizabeth, Gertrude, Luella, Della, Albert and Roy Davey, Mr. and Mrs. Mary, Miss Anna Davey, Mr. and Mrs. J. Mahoney and Mrs. Mabie. The floral tributes were many and of great beauty.

Frank Driscoll.
Word has been received in this city of the death of Frank Driscoll, a former Janesville man, at Rochester, New York, on May 5. His body will be sent to this city for burial, arriving tonight. Funeral services will be held at St. Mary's church tomorrow morning.

Miss Catherine Ablett.
Funeral services for Miss Catherine Ablett will be held at the home of her sister, Mrs. Michael Rabyer, 1320 Elizabeth street, at eleven o'clock tomorrow morning. The Rev. J. W. Mahoney, pastor of the Presbyterian church, will officiate. The body will be conveyed to Milton Junction for burial.

David N. Walrath.
Last rites for David N. Walrath were held at 1:30 o'clock this afternoon at the home, 421 Fifth avenue. Services were conducted by the Rev. T. D. Williams, pastor of the Catholic Church. The remains were taken overland to Edgerton to be buried in a cemetery at that place.

So It Seems.
"No man is indispensable," Bella—"But some man is."—New York Sun.

Grand hotel where dinner will be served and followed by a post prandial program at which the advantages of Janesville as a location for the fair site, will be explained. The talks will not be long, but to the point, and will give the committee an insight into what Janesville has to offer in the way of site, railway facilities, accommodations of crowds and natural advantages as well as geographical location.

Special Matinee.
Immediately following the dinner and speeches the party will proceed by auto to the Park and Pleasure Drive association's grounds where an impromptu matinee will be held. There are some forty seats of last horses or present. The talks will be given a workout by their trainers for the benefit of the visitors. It should prove a most interesting program for the afternoon and doubtless many citizens will avail themselves of the entertainment and be present.

All Invited.
The committee having charge of the affair are most anxious that all auto owners, business men and citizens be present to welcome the legislators. All autos who will join the parade are urged to be at the Court House park at 5:15. The committee had planned to return to Milwaukee by the afternoon train, but it is hardly possible they will be induced to stay over night. Should they decide however, to go back by the afternoon train a buffet luncheon will be served them, probably in the Elks club rooms, on their return from the track.

Members of the Committee.

SIDEWALK SKETCHES

STRIKES.

(By Howard L. Rann.)

A STRIKE is an expensive form of arbitration which leaves everybody satisfied but the ultimate consumer. It is called a strike because it raises large welts on the common people, who are obliged to pay not only the funeral expenses, but heavy dividends on the outraged feelings of the strikers.

Strikes are usually called in order to persuade capital to quit stealing the bedding from labor. When a manufacturer is squeezing 40 per cent dividends out of a stock which is 60 per cent water, he is liable to come down to the plane and find everything closed tighter than a mule's saloon on election day. He then makes a 10 per cent increase in wages and the price to the consumer in order to assuage his mental anguish.

The coal industry generally manages to have one good, adhesive strike every year, which is usually pulled off just in advance of the time when the mine operators get together and erect a sliding scale of prices. A coal strike is always followed by several hand springs in the price of that luxury, which keep a man reaching for his check book with a grievous look. If there should be two coal strikes in one year, nine-tenths of the people of this country would either have to burn their bedroom furniture or sleep in a hayrack.

One of the most offensive forms of strikes is that which occurs in the wage question, but results from indignation on the part of the cook because she cannot have the front parlor four nights a week. Some cooks never strike until the invitations are out for a six-course dinner, and refuse to go on duty unless allowed the use of the piano in the reception hall. This attitude on the part of the hired help has caused a great many women to regret having exchanged $60 a month in the Eighth grad for a glittering assortment of nuptial vows.

IF THIS IS YOUR BIRTHDAY You will remove or make a journey and be able to take advantage of good opportunities. If your mind is not clouded by worry over small annoyances and lack of personal comfort. Some illness or trouble among your friends will make demands on your time.

Those born today will not be contented to settle down in any place. Their education should be along lines that will make for success in traveling or in foreign lands. Quick judgment of people and things, good looks and a kindly interest in human nature will be of great value to them.

Success in Chiropractic

"The" Janesville Chiropractor, J. N. Imlay, Has Wonderful Success. Hundreds of Ailing Ones From Miles Around Visit Him Every Week and Are Benefited.

Since coming to Janesville in 1910, I have had wonderful success with Chiropractic, my business of giving Chiropractic adjustments has grown by leaps and bounds. This increase has made it necessary for me to recently add one more of the latest and best Chiropractic adjusting tables to my already complete modern equipment.

A Chiropractor, to be successful, must keep abreast of the times; to keep in touch with the new thoughts and ideas that are constantly being brought out in this as well as other sciences. Post Graduate work and attendance at several Lectures on the Severe Forms of Disease enable me to take care of them now with marked results.

Perfect spine. When your spine is in this condition, your body cannot accept disease.

Hay Fever Sufferers, Attention!

It is no longer necessary to take expensive Northern trips to avoid this dread malady. If you will come to me now, I will tell you when it will be best for you to start taking my Chiropractic adjustments for the relief of your trouble. Hay Fever sufferers have been entirely relieved through one Chiropractic adjustment. I have testimonials to this effect on file in my office.

TUBERCULOSIS has come in for a great deal of my time in study recently. Tuberculosis, the most dreaded of diseases, can be helped through Chiropractic adjustments which give Nature a chance to throw off the disease and let you get well.

LOCAL CHAUTAUQUA SOCIETY ORGANIZED

Thomas S. Nolan Elected President of Association at Meeting Thursday Afternoon.

At a meeting of the committee which has been interested in the securing of a chautauqua program for Janesville this summer was held at the Gazette office Thursday afternoon, T. S. Nolan was elected president, the Rev. J. W. Laughlin, vice president, F. E. Lane, secretary, and C. H. Weirick, treasurer. Dates for the entertainment will probably be the week of July 31 to August 5, and the tent will be located on the land known at Dunn's pasture on North Washington street.

Some excellent talent is assured for the program by the management of the Lincoln Chautauqua Assembly which is furthering the affair. Among the booking at present are:

Hon. Fred S. Jackson, former attorney general and congressman of Kansas, Harold Morton Kramer, author of several books, soldier and reformer; Dr. Cole and a band of eight Pueblo Indians, Harrie Bland with his orchestra, Mrs. Nannie Curtis, the "Texas Cyclone," Denton C. Crowl of Sam Jones fame; Nell Bunnell, singer of the songs we all know and love. These are a few of the forty or more people who will appear on the program.

Woman in New Sphere. Oporto is the only city in Portugal that can boast of having a female health inspector, a woman having been appointed by the government to a subinspectorship in the department of public health. Another striking appointment by the government comes with the selection of a well-known woman scholar to a professorship in ordinary at the Universities of Coimbra and Lisbon. The lady professor in question has been appointed to fill the chair in Germanic philosophy.

THE PURCHASE PRICE; OR THE CAUSE OF COMPROMISE

By EMERSON HOUGH

Copyright, 1916, by Emerson Hough

You were witness of the anxiety of our attempt to keep war and the talk of it far in the background—our desire to preserve the present state of peace. "Assuredly. But, sir, you will forgive me—I do not believe peace will last. I thought so until this very day. In my belief now, there will be war. It cannot be averted. To me this calm is something which cannot endure. I myself at one time thought it could endure, but only if all the blacks were bought and deported, to make room for those who come at no cost to us. I thought for a time it could be done, but I have failed. I do not think others will follow in my attempt."

"We have not undervalued, madam, either the brilliance or the profundity of your own active intellect. What you say is of interest. To be frank with you, you have, as we just have said, been much concerned of late with attempts at the colonization and deportation of 'negroes' from this country. Precisely such was once my own plan. My counselors dissuaded me. I lacked your courage."

"There seemed no other way," she broke in hurriedly, her convictions conquering her timidity. "I wanted so much to do something—not alone for these blacks—but something for the good of America, the good of the world. And I failed, today."

"The work of the colonization society has gone on for many years," gently insisted the first speaker, raising a hand, "and made no serious complications. Your own work has been much bolder, and, to be frank, there have been complications. Oh, we do not criticize you. On the contrary, we have asked your presence here that we might understandingly converse on these things to which you have given so much attention."

"If I have erred," she ventured, "it has been done within the limitations of human wisdom; yet my convictions were absolutely sincere—at least I may assure you of so much. I have not wished to break any law, to violate convictions on either side. I only wanted to do some good in the world."

"We are quite sure, my dear lady, that the sentiments of your mind are precisely those of our own. But perhaps you may be less aware than ourselves of complications which may arise. Our friend who sits by you has found occasion to write again in unmeasured terms to the representatives of Austria. We are advised of your affiliations with the Hungarian movement—in short, we are perhaps better advised of your movements than you yourself are aware. We know of these blacks which have been purchased and deported by your agents, but we also know that large numbers of slaves have been enticed away from their owners, that whole plantations have been robbed of their labor and this under the protection—indeed, under the very name—of this attempt which you have set on foot. Has this been done by your knowledge, madam? I anticipate your answer. I am sure that it has not."

"No, no," she rejoined. "I have spent my own funds in this matter, and I have told my own agents to do nothing in the slightest contravention of the law. But you have watched me! I have been—"

"This is a simple and democratic country, madam," was the quiet answer, although perhaps there might have been the trace of a smile on the close set mouth of the speaker. "We do not spy on any one. Your acts have been quite within public knowledge. You yourself have not sought to leave them secret. There is no need of apprehension on your part. Let us assure you of that at once. We are glad that you, whom we recognize as the moving spirit in this deportation enterprise, have not sanctioned certain of the acts of your agents. There was one—a former army officer—with whom there labored a revolutionist, a German, recently from Europe. Is it not

"It is true," she assented. "They were my chief agents." But as for that officer, this country has none more eager to offer his sword to the flag when the time shall come. I am sure it is but his zeal which has caused offense. I would plead for his reinstatement. He may have been indiscreet. "We shall listen to what you say. But in addition to these, there was a former slave girl who has been somewhat prominent in meetings which these two have carried on in different parts of the country. In the words of the southern press, this girl has been used as a decoy."

"Lily!" exclaimed Josephine. "It must have been she! Yes, I had such a person in my employ—in very humble capacity. But, sir, I assure you I have not seen her for more than two months. I had supposed her busy with these others on the lecture platform."

"She is not now so engaged," interrupted a voice from the shadows on the other side of the table.

"Then she has been arrested?" demanded Josephine.

"That is not the term. Yet it is true that she sailed on one of our own colonization ships last week. Her fortune will lie elsewhere hereafter. It was her own wish."

A sudden sense of helplessness smote upon Josephine St. Auban. Here, even in this republic, were great and silent powers with which the individual needed to contend.

"But, gentlemen," said she, as she held out in her hand some papers which cracked in her trembling grasp, "after all, we are at cross purposes. This is not necessary. My own work is at an end already! This very morning it came to an end, and forever. I have a report today from my agents in Europe. Gentlemen, since I must mention these things, I have been possessor of a fortune in my own name which might have been called considerable. I had estates in France and Austria. This advises me that my estates have been confiscated by the governments in both countries—they got word there, in some way."

"It was Hulsemann!" ejaculated the dark man, as to himself. "Austria's man here!"

She went on: "If I am not welcome in this country, whither shall I go? I am an exile as I stand before you. I am a widow. I have no living kin. Moreover, I am an exile, impoverished, as I stand. Here are my proofs."

She placed her papers in the hand of her escort, the nearest of these grave and silent men. A nod from the leader at the head of the table caused this tall and dark gentleman to rise and seek a place closer to the window in order that he might find better light for reading. His glasses upon his nose, he scanned the papers gravely. A sudden smile broke out upon his face.

"Gentlemen," said he at length, quietly, "this lady has been kind to come to meet us, and you all are witness that her dealings have been perfectly frank and sincere. I confess, however, I am somewhat puzzled over this document which she has given me. I presume we may well mark it 'Exhibit A.' If you do not mind I will read it to you."

My Dear Madam—I take in hand my pen to tell you how life goes with us in this locality. The business of Hector is improved one-half this year. We have green blinds on all sides of the house and a vine that grows also. The mother of Hector is kind to me. We have abundance of this place. But, madame, that which it is which I write you, there is come but now the baby of Hector and myself Joanne. In all this locality there is no baby like this. Madame, we have said to name it for yourself, Josephine St. Auban Joanne Marie Fournier. Moreover, madame, it is advise that for a baby so remarkable a godmother is necessary. I take my pen in hand to inquire of madame whether in the kindness of her heart madame could come to see us and be present at this christening of this child most extraordinary. I have the assurance also of Hector that the remarkable qualities of this baby will warrant the presence of madame. A reply address on St. Genevieve, in Missouri, will arrive to your faithful and obedient servant.

JEANNE.

Before this singular document had been half concluded there were sounds of shifting chairs, bursts of stifled laughter. The tall gentleman nevertheless went on, solemnly finishing this communication. As for Josephine, she had shrunk back in her chair, knowing not which way to turn.

He approached, and laid just the slightest, gentlest hand upon the shoulder of the discomfited woman, who sat speechless, her face suffused. "Your documents are regular, madam," he said kindly. "As for this other, which perhaps was the one you intended me to read, that is private matter. If your fortunes have been ruined, they have been ruined in a cause in which a kind heart and an active brain were deeply enlisted. You have our regrets."

"Sir!" He turned now toward the tall gentleman who sat silent at the head of the table. "I am sure there is no further need for this lady's attendance here."

"Wait a moment!" interrupted a voice from the opposite side of the table. The leader shifted in his seat as he turned toward Josephine St. Auban. "This is the gentleman from Kentucky," he said. "We usually find his words of interest. Tarry, then, for just a moment longer."

A tall figure was visible in the hall.

"There is no further need for this lady's attendance."

Light as the clear voice of the gentleman so described went on.

"Sir and gentlemen, there is no Kentucky—no, nor any man from any other state here present—who could suffer this matter to conclude just as it is now. This is not all. This matter but begins. We have invited to attend us a lady whose activities we considered dangerous. That is the plain truth of it, and we all know it, and she may know it. Instead of that, we find here with us now a woman in distress. It is not without my knowledge that this lady at one time, according to popular report, was asked to undertake a journey which later resulted in considerable personal inconvenience, not to say indignity, to herself. Is there any way, gentlemen, in which, especially in consideration of her present material circumstances, this government—I mean to say this country—can make some amends for that?"

"Madam," began the leader at the head of the table, "I did not predict wrongly regarding our friend from Kentucky, but in reply to him I myself must say, as I have already said, we are but a simple republic. All our acts must be open and known. What special fund, my dear sir—this to the speaker, who still retained his position—"in what manner, indeed, could this be arranged?"

"In the easiest way in the world," rejoined the Kentuckian. "This lady, whatever her nationality, is at heart much identified with the cause of Hungary. We have already invited Louis Kossuth to come to America as the guest of this country. Even now one of the vessels of our navy is approaching his port of exile in Turkey to carry him hither."

"Now, then, gentlemen"—and he raised an argumentative forefinger—"there must be committees of entertainment; there must be those able to interpret, those competent to arrange large plans and to do so courteously, with dignity."

"For a competent committee head, charged with the duty of making that entertainment, gracious and dignified and worthy alike of the old world and the new, I should think that an annual expenditure of, say, $5,000 or $10,000 for eight or ten years would not be inadequate. If this lady, whose kind heart and brilliant mind, as our honored friend has said, both have been shown before us today—if she would agree—some such provision as this from this fund, I am entirely clear in my own mind as to both the wisdom and the absolute propriety of extending this offer to her!"

He sat down. Laughter and applause met his remarks. Thus, and gallantly, did Kentucky make amends.

"Madam," at length interrogated the tall man at the head of the table, bending upon her his gaze, as did all those other grave figures present—"providing this matter might be arranged, would it be within your pleasure to accept some such remuneration as that for services which should be given quite within your wishes? I need not say," he added, turning his gaze along each side of the long table, "that this is something which, in view of all circumstances, to me also seems quite within dignity, decency and absolute public propriety."

But Josephine St. Auban could make no reply. Her face was hidden in her hands, and only her heaving shoulders showed the sudden emotion which had swept upon her overstrained soul. At last she felt a gentle hand touch hers. She raised her head as, one after another, these men approached, each extending his hand to her and bowing in salutation. Presently the room was deserted.

Unique Symbol on Gravestone. The gravestone between Kennebunkport and Cape Porpoise of one Tristram Tapley exhibits an uncommon and yet most sensible idea. Affixed to the stone in a silver case is enclosed an old-fashioned daguerreotype of the young man, protected from the elements by a cover. One with such a name ought certainly to have been a lover of books.

HOW MRS. BROWN SUFFERED

During Change of Life—How Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Made Her a Well Woman.

Iola, Kansas.—"During the Change of Life I was sick for two years. Before I took your medicine, I could not bear the weight of my clothes and was bloated very badly. I doctored with three doctors but they did me no good. They said nature must have its way. My sister advised me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I purchased a bottle. Before it was gone the bloating left me and I was not so sore. I continued taking it until I had taken twelve bottles. Now I am stronger than I have been for years and can do all my work, even the washing. Your medicine is worth its weight in gold. I cannot praise it enough. If more women would take your medicine there would be more healthy women. You may use this letter for the good of others."—Mrs. D. H. Brown, 809 N. Walnut St., Iola, Kan.

Change of Life is one of the most critical periods of a woman's existence. Women everywhere should remember that there is no other remedy known to so successfully carry women through this trying period as Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

If you want special advice write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential) Lynn, Mass. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman and held in strict confidence.

THE HEARTLESS HEIRESS
Oh, won't you be my blushing bride?" (He knelt upon the sod). "For if you will not marry me, I'll batter off the head." The beautiful heiress fanned herself.

"No," she said firmly. "I will not marry the prince." "Please do, Mabel," urged her mother. "His hair just matches our new drawing room furniture."

"Aw, go on," said her brother. "I wanna learn to roll cigarettes the way he rolls 'em."

But the beautiful heiress was adamant. "No!" she said. "No, non, nein!" She spoke three languages.

"Why?" inquired her mother. "Is it because he hasn't asked you?"

"Why?" asked her brother. "Is it because the man is 67 years your senior?"

"No," said the beautiful heiress. "It isn't that. It's because he had heart failure when I accepted him. Even now his body lies behind the couch, very, very dead."

The beautiful heiress fanned herself.
